The amendments were non-Harbor bill. The amendments were non-concurred in and a conference asked. Then a struggle arose for priority of consideration between the Inter-State Commerce and the Northern Pacific Forfeiture bills, which was resolved, yeas, 142; nays, 99, in favor of the former. The Senate bill was read at length, together with the amendment reported by the Comm ttee on Commerce, which is to strike out after the enacting clause and insert the House bill. The debate on the bill was continued into the evening session, but no final action reached.

THE Senate on the 22d agreed to the conference report on the Naval Appropriation bill, and then debate was resumed upon the Payne case and Senator Sherman advocated an investigation. Several other Senators spoke. No vote was taken before ad-journment . . Little business was transacted n the House. Mr. Hatch reported, as a matter of privilege, the Oleomargarine bill with the Senate amendments, but the Speaker declined to entertain it as a privileged report. Several committees reported. The report on the Oleomargarine bill was finally referred to the Committee of the Whole. The House in committee attempted to reach the bill, but

A BAD BAND.

A Band of Young Men Kill Three Negroes

in Mississippi, JACKSON, Miss., July 23 .- A deplorable state of affairs exists near Union, Newton County, about twenty miles east of here. A band of young white men, styling themselves "The Regulators," have issued a decree that no negro shall work on the farms in that vicinity. The band contains about fifteen members, and they have killed three negroes and wounded several others. A perfect state of terror prevails in the community, and the entire county is greatly excited over the matter. The best people in the community, and in fact every one except members of this band, condemn the the fact that the Apaches have never yet atrocious and bloody actions in the most strong, Indian Territory, about twentypronounced terms and are determined that five miles from this place, Conductor

Not only was all Albany on the streets, but visitors from all the surrounding country had come to swell the throng. Every boat and train brought. fresh accessions to the multitude already within the city. The sightseers were not disappointed in their expectations, for the strong but friendly rivalry between the several nationalities represented in the procession resulted in making it a complete success.

The procession was formed under command of Colonel M. J Severance, Grand Marshal, with an efficient staff. In the first division was a float bearing young women representing the various provinces of Holland, and dressed in typical costumes. The convention extends the provisions of Article X. of the treaty of 1842 to four crimes not therein mentioned, as follows; dagger and the fulminating cap, which Manslaughter, burglary, embezzlement or larceny involving the amount of fifty dollars or ten pounds, and maliclous injuries to property whereby the life of any person shall be endangered if such injuries constitute a crime according to the laws of both countries. It is also provided that the provisions of article X. shall apply to persons convicted of crimes named in the treaty of 1842 and the new convention, as well as to those charged before trial with the commission of them. The convention is not retroactive; no surrender is to be demanded for a political offense, and no trial is permitted for any other offensethan the one for which extradition is requested until the person extradited has had opportunity to return to the State b > which he was surrendered. In his letter to the Secretary of State Mr. Phelps says it is understood between the two governments that the conventionshall not stand in the way of a moreelaborate treaty, if one is desired, but he expresses the opinion that a new treaty will not be necessary.
